TOWN MANAGER'S REPORT

The information contained in this report is intended to inform the Select Board, staff, and residents, some of the current activities taking place within the manager's office or the Town in general. All topics are open for discussion.

Yarmouth Water District - Following attempts to schedule a joint workshop I received another request from Bob MacKinnon in that the district feels it would be advantageous if a smaller group of representatives from both entities met prior to the joint workshop. The group will consist of individuals from the district who have been working on the groundwater update, CEO Ryan Keith, a Planning Board member, and myself. The joint workshop for the Select Board and the YWD trustees is now scheduled for May 15th @ 6:00pm. Select Board members will find a copy of the draft groundwater plan in your boxes. Additionally, I have enclosed with this report a Notice of Intent to Sell Water Resource Land - Dexter Lane location which was already reviewed by the Board. If an offer is made on the property, the Town will again be given the opportunity to purchase the property.

Trash Removal - In working with Casella on the issue of recycling materials and the use a plastic bags they have gone back to picking up recycling materials (despite the type of container) however, effective May 1st recycling materials can no longer be disposed of in plastic bags. Casella is sending out a mass mailing to all our residents this coming week regarding this change. On a separate issue, I attended a meeting with ecomaine and other area Town Managers on the possibilities of regionalizing curbside pickup. This is just in the beginning stages, and I will keep the Board informed of any developments.

MSAD51 Education Budget Warrant - The school directors will be executing the education budget warrant on Monday, May 7th. It needs to be countersign by the Select Board which represents your acknowledgment that the school budget for FY19 will be voted upon on June 12th. Due to election time constraints/requirements, the Board needs to execute this document on May 8th by calling forth an additional Select Board meeting. I am recommending that the Board hold an early afternoon meeting for this purpose only. Three members would be required.

May 16th & 17th - Services will be closed for purposes of annual mandatory training and needed maintenance of Town facility space and records.

Next Summit - The next Summit is scheduled for Thursday, May 31st.

Respectfully,

Rosemary Rosemary E. Roy, Town Manager

Re: Yarmouth Water District Notice of Intent to Sell Water Resource Land – Dexter Lane

Dear Rosemary:

I am writing to provide the Town of North Yarmouth ("Town") with notice that the Yarmouth Water District ("District") intends to sell water resource land – the District-owned parcel on Dexter Lane (the "Parcel").

I previously had written to you about the Town's interest in the Parcel. The District understands that the Town is not interested in purchasing the Parcel. However, the District is required by State law (35-A M.R.S. § 6109) and Public Utilities Commission regulations (Chapter 691) to notify the Commission, the Town in which the water resource land is located, and the public (by publication in a newspaper of general circulation) of its intent to sell the Parcel. That notice to the Town must provide the same information as is provided to the Commission, and so I am including a copy of the District's notice to the Commission.

The same State law and regulation require the District to notify the municipality in which that land is located that it has an assignable right of first refusal to purchase that land. Therefore, the District hereby advises the Town that it has an assignable right of first refusal to purchase the Parcel. A copy of Chapter 691, which sets out the details of that right of first refusal in Section 5, is enclosed. Please note that under Chapter 691, Section 5, when the District receives an offer, it must offer the Parcel to the Town "under the same price, terms and conditions that have been offered to the other buyer" before entering into a binding contract for the sale of the Parcel.

Accordingly, and assuming the Town remains uninterested in purchasing the Parcel in the first instance, when the District receives an offer to purchase the Parcel, it will offer it to the Town under the same price, terms and conditions as before entering into a binding purchase and sale agreement with a purchaser. Please call or email me with any questions or comments regarding this notice.

Sincerely,

Robert MacKinnon, Superintendent Yarmouth Water District

Subject:Revised Additional Services Amendment/Local Tradesperson List Attachments: 2018.4.12 - Wescustogo Additional Services Amendment.pdf

Hi Rosemary.

Attached is the revised additional services amendment. This spells out the services in a little more detail which will hopefully break down the costs into more digestible pieces.

The fixed cost of $25,000 outlined covers all subcontractor solicitation (all trades), project scoping/specifications for trades, processing all quotes, subcontractor review, final estimate and final scheduling. Within each of these descriptions there are a number of additional requirements that this covers as well but to be succinct this describes the major pieces entailed in this early stage of construction. As we discussed at our last meeting with Jen and Steve, these costs were carried within the previous budget estimate. In an effort to expedite construction mobilization, assuming the vote moves the project forward, we are trying to get everyone lined up for a summer start.

The additional amount of $15,000 provided is a budget number that we have included to cover any additional clarification items that may come up as bidding commences. The project itself is relatively straightforward as a whole so we are confident that the bidders shouldn't need any substantial amounts of information to finalize their bids, however it is always helpful to assume that some of the trades may.

When you have an opportunity to review please let me know if you have any questions that we can help clarify.

Also, in preparation for solicitation to subcontractors, can you possibly provide the North Yarmouth subcontractor list that has been discussed or point us in the direction of someone who might be able to provide us the most comprehensive list so we can be sure to include as many local folks in the bidding process as possible.

Thank you for your help.

Kind regards,

Matthew Ahlberg . RA . NCARB Director of Design Services | Barrett Made 48 Union Wharf . Portland, Maine . 04101 207-210-4421 (o) 207-613-1230 (c)

RE: Limited Indoor Air Quality Assessment Former North Yarmouth Memorial School 120 Memorial Highway, North Yarmouth, Maine NTC Job #16580-2018

Ms. Roy,

Please find enclosed the documentation for the Indoor Air Quality Assessment conducted by Northeast Test Consultants on April 4, 2018 at the Former North Yarmouth Memorial School structure located at 120 Memorial Highway in North Yarmouth, Maine.

PURPOSE

This assessment was performed to determine current air quality conditions for airborne mold spore activity relating to possible mold growth issues and assess if conditions could create any health/respiratory response issues for occupants.

PROCEDURES

This activity was comprised of observations of interior building conditions with the collection of air samples to determine airborne mold spore levels with an outdoor sample also collected for comparative purposes.

The assessment and sampling conducted was performed in accordance with the Environmental Criteria and Assessment Guidelines, recommended by the U.S. EPA Environmental Criteria and Assessment Office, Office of Health and Environmental Assessment, US EPA 600/8-91/202 (ECAO-R-0315); American Conference of Governmental Industrial Hygienists (ACGIH); and the National Institute of Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH).

Biological Air Sampling

Air samples were collected to determine indoor air quality relating to mold spore activity utilizing Allergenco-D<sup>TM</sup> air-sampling cassettes collected for a ten-minute period at a flow rate of 15 liters per minute for a total volume of 150 Liters per sample.

The Allergenco- $D^{TM}$  air sampling style cassette is a sampling device designed for the rapid collection and analysis of a wide range of airborne aerosols. These include fungal spores, pollen, insect parts, skin cell fragments, fibers and inorganic particulates.

OBSERVATIONS

Numerous water stained ceiling tiles were observed throughout the interior spaces.

Water damaged drywall was observed in various areas throughout the interior spaces, primarily above suspended ceiling systems due to roof leakage issues.

Some lower wall areas also had water damage, mostly at perimeter entrance doors.

Visible mold growth was observed on lower walls in the "Storage Room" near Room #18. Hole cuts have previously been made in this wall area, most probably to aid drying from earlier water impact events.

Observations above ceiling areas were extremely limited as a plastic vapor barrier and fiberglass batting is directly above the suspended ceiling system.

Rodent activity was observed above the ceiling in all areas assessed. Of note was rodent carcasses observed in a bin in Room #21.

Roof areas were observed to be failing and in need of repair with damaged shingles for most roof areas.

Exterior siding is in various stages of deterioration/damage with many areas in need of repair and/or replacement.

See attached photograph log for depiction of observed conditions and marked drawing.

OVERVIEW of SAMPLING DATA

BIOLOGICAL AIRBORNE SAMPLING

The total mold spore level for the Outdoor Control sample (A-1) indicated mold spore activity at 2,300 ct/m<sup>3</sup> and contained Ascospores species, a common outdoor ubiquitous species.

The indoor samples collected (A-2 thru A-9) had very low levels of airborne mold spore activity ranging from <27 (none detected) to 53 ct/m<sup>3</sup> of varying mixes of Aspergillus/Penicillium-like and Unknown spores.

Currently there are no regulatory levels for mold spore activity, but most persons typically do not have adverse reactions to general environmental mold spore levels <5,000 ct/m<sup>3</sup>.

Seven of the eight indoor samples had no indication of Aspergillus/Penicillium-like spore activity; one sample (A-2) had a very low level (27 ct/m<sup>2</sup>). This species is a key indicator for mold growth issues indoors as it can grow in as little as 24-48 hours in the presence of moisture and even can thrive in elevated ambient moisture levels, typically above 55% RH.

The most recent research by the various organizations indicates that Aspergillus/Penicillium sp. spore activity for indoor environments can be expressed as follows:

"Clean" residential buildings	Typical levels: $230 \text{ ct/m}^3 \text{ +/- } 630$
Buildings with flooding/water damage	Typical levels: $> 2,200 \text{ ct/m}^3$
Mold-damaged buildings	Typical levels:> $36,000 \text{ ct/m}^3$

Levels of Cladosporium indoors are typically up to 500 ct/m<sup>3</sup> indoors.

No Chaetomium, Fusarium, Memnoniella, Stachybotrys or Trichoderma mold species were detected in the air samples collected at this time for the occupied spaces. These species are organisms of concern when active fungal growth reservoirs exist in wet building materials. They have the capability, but do not always, produce mycotoxins and microbial volatile organic compounds (mvoc's) and its potential effects can seriously compromise a building and/or the health of occupants. These effects for human health can be worse for immune compromised persons (such as those with HIV, the elderly, terminally or seriously ill patients (cancer patients)), persons with pre-existing breathing conditions or asthma and the very young.

Typically, mold species activity indoors should be less than the outdoor activity at the same time of testing or be no more than  $200 \text{ ct/m}^3$  for individual species not present in the outdoor control sample.

This was the case for the indoor samples collected during this assessment which indicates the indoor air is not currently being adversely affected by indoor mold growth sources.

Refer to the analysis sampling data for specific species levels identified.

SUMMARY of FINDINGS

Based on site observations and air sampling data, the Former North Yarmouth Memorial School is not currently being impacted by any significant mold growth reservoirs.

The level of airborne mold spore activity detected should pose no elevated risk to occupants.

However the building is at risk for ongoing potential mold growth issues due to roof and siding conditions and the general building envelope which lends itself to build-up of indoor moisture levels.

Rodent activity and the collection of carcasses being stored in the building are a concern.

Rodent activity and carcass accumulation can put occupants at risk for Hantavirus Pulmonary Syndrome and/or Leptospirosis.

Hantavirus Pulmonary Syndrome is associated with the deer mouse, cotton rat, rice rat, and white-footed mouse and is due to a virus carried by these rodents and is prevalent throughout North and South America.<sup>[1]</sup>

The disease is spread by breathing dust that is contaminated with rodent urine and droppings, direct contact with rodents or their urine and droppings, and from bite wounds (although this does not frequently occur).<sup>[1]</sup>

Hantavirus Pulmonary Syndrome (HPS) is a severe, sometimes fatal, respiratory disease in humans caused by infection with the hantavirus virus.<sup>[1]</sup>

Anyone who comes into contact with rodents that carry hantavirus is at risk of HPS. Rodent infestation in and around the home remains the primary risk for hantavirus exposure. Even healthy individuals are at risk for HPS infection if exposed to the virus.<sup>[1]</sup>

To date, no cases of HPS have been reported in the United States in which the virus was transmitted from one person to another. In fact, in a study of health care workers who were exposed to either patients or specimens infected with related types of hantaviruses (which cause a different disease in humans), none of the workers showed evidence of infection or illness.<sup>[1]</sup>

Leptospirosis is associated with rodents and other animals, and is due to bacteria with exposure occurring worldwide.<sup>[1]</sup>

The disease occurs from eating food or drinking water contaminated with urine from infected animals, contact through the skin or mural membranes, and with water, soils, or dust that is contaminated with the urine of infected animals.<sup>[1]</sup>

Leptospirosis is a bacterial disease that affects humans and animals alike. It is caused by bacteria of the genus Leptospira. In humans, it can cause a wide range of symptoms, some of which may be mistaken for other diseases. Some infected persons, however, may have no symptoms at all.

Without treatment, Leptospirosis can lead to kidney damage, meningitis (inflammation of the membrane around the brain and spinal cord), liver failure, respiratory distress, and even death.

RECOMMENDATIONS

Based on site conditions observed and testing, Northeast Test Consultants would make the following recommendations:

1. A pest control entity should be consulted with and an Integrated Pest Management Program (IPM) may be needed.

Additionally, the pest control specialist may be able to better seal the envelope of the structure to prevent rodents from entering.

- 2. Properly dispose of collected rodent carcasses currently in Room #21.
- 3. If the rodent compromised insulation above suspended ceilings are to be impacted during ongoing occupancy, it should only be undertaken by a professional, utilizing appropriate engineering/isolation controls and PPE with remaining surfaces properly sanitized.

When hiring contractors that will perform cleaning/sanitizing of materials/surfaces in which regulated biocides or sanitizing agents are utilized, they must be applied properly by a licensed Master Applicator certified by the State of Maine Pesticides Bureau.

4. If the shell of the building (roof and siding) is not addressed in the near future, the building may be negatively impacted by moisture/water intrusion issues that can lead to significant mold growth conditions that can impact occupants.

The findings relating to physical conditions observed during this investigation were not intended, nor do they attempt to identify every possible source of contaminants, such as chemical or mold, throughout the entire structure.

Any measured results, analysis data and physical conditions observed are valid only for the period in which this inspection was conducted. Any additional degradation of building materials or contamination from new or reactivated sources, or areas inaccessible at the time of the inspection is not documented in this report.

Historical events or ambient air conditions that may have existed in the past cannot be correlated in any way with the enclosed data. No warranty, real or implied, is made as to what was or is the exact cause or source that may have adversely affected the indoor air quality in the past.

Please review the enclosed analytical sampling data, interpretation of mold activity, explanation of isolates identified, photograph log, and marked drawing.

Should you have any questions regarding this report, please feel free to give me a call.

MOLD INTERPRETATION

Molds can be detected both indoors and outdoors year round. Ideal conditions for the proliferation of molds are humid environments, typically in basement/crawl spaces, bathrooms and water compromised building materials.

Mold spores are considered a normal and essential component of all environments. Typically three key conditions are necessary for the proliferation of mold spores: a favorable physical environment (light & temperature), a source of food and moisture.

Mold spores are almost always found in outdoor air, although their type and population will vary depending on environmental and climatic conditions. Doors and windows, mechanical ventilation equipment and everyday foot traffic provide easy access to the interior of buildings.

It is normal to find some quantity of mold spores in indoor air, although their numbers should be significantly less than outdoor levels.

Currently, there are no regulatory standards for acceptable levels of mold spores in bioaerosols, wipes or bulk samples derived from the indoor environment for interpreting health risks associated with molds.

The sampling analysis data provides a medical professional the information necessary to determine the appropriate treatment for individuals with chronic lung disease, persons who are immune compromised, or for individuals with allergies or exhibiting other symptoms relating to upper respiratory complaints.

Current recommended guidelines in the US EPA's publication, Indoor Air Quality in Schools, suggests that fungal spore species identified in samples collected from the indoor environment should not be different than those species found in the outdoor air at the same time of sampling. Also, fungal spore activity present in the indoor environment should be at levels of one-third to one-half of those found outdoors. Indoor levels of similar genera higher than onethird to one-half of outdoors may indicate inadequate fresh air exchange or poor air filtration. Fungi identified indoors that are of different genera than found outdoors may indicate contamination of interior building materials and substrates.

Chaetomium, Fusarium, Memnoniella, Stachybotrys and Trichoderma mold species are of concern when active fungal growth reservoirs exist in wet building materials. They have the capability, but do not always, produce mycotoxins and microbial volatile organic compounds (mvoc's) and their potential effects can seriously compromise a building and/or the health of occupants. These effects for human health can be worse for immuno compromised persons (such as those with HIV, the elderly, terminally or seriously ill patients (cancer patients)), persons with pre-existing breathing conditions or asthma, and the very young.

EXPLANATION OF ISOLATES****

Ascospores

Ascospores are a general category of spores that have been produced by means of sexual reproduction (in a sack-like structure called an ascus). These are ubiquitous saprobes and plant pathogens, many of which are easily identifiable (i.e. Chaetomium).

This group contains potential opportunistic pathogens, toxin producers and allergens depending on the genus and species. A rupture in the top portion of the ascus disperses the spores during rain or in times of high humidity. Some asexual fungi, such as Aspergillus and Penicillium can become sexual under specific conditions; these are then considered ascomycetes and are given distinct names.

Aspergillus/Penicillium-like

Aspergillus and Penicillium spores are indistinguishable via direct microscopic examination. Aspergillus tends to colonize continuously damp materials such as damp wallboard and fabrics. Penicillium is commonly found in house dust, on water-damaged wallpaper, behind paint and in decaying fabrics.

Aspergillus is a common Type I & III allergen. There are more than 160 different species of Aspergillus, sixteen of which have been documented as etiological agents of human disease but rarely occur in individuals with normally functioning immune systems.

Penicillium species are common contaminants on various substances. This organism causes food spoilage, colonizes leather objects and is typically an indicator organism of damp indoor conditions. Some species are known to produce mycotoxins.

The health of occupants may be adversely affected in an environment that has an amplification of Penicillium.

This fungal species is usually identified in source reservoirs such as chronically wet building components. Penicillium is typically one of the first fungal species to grow on moisture-compromised materials. Penicillium is characterized by rapidly growing colonies having conidial structures resembling brushes. It commonly produces a strong musty odor.

Unknown Dematiaceous spores

All other non-distinctive unidentifiable dark colored spores seen on a sample are placed into this category. The common factor among the dematiaceous fungi is the presence of melanin pigments in the cell walls and spores.

The dematiaceous fungi are found throughout the world in soil and decaying vegetation but appear to be especially common in tropical and subtropical regions.

Dematiaceous fungi have melanin-like pigments in the cell walls and can cause a variety of infections in humans known as phaeohyphomycosis (phaeo is Greek for "dark") or chromomycosis. The most severe of the phaeohyphomycoses are infections of the central nervous system (CNS).

ALLERGENS

Allergens are any substance that can trigger an inappropriate immune response or can cause an allergic reaction in susceptible people.

There are four (4) types of hypersensitivity responses:

Type I: Anaphylactic, allergic Type II: Cytotoxic

Type III: Immune Complex Induced Type IV: Cell Mediated
